A GREAT EVENT

Don't Fail to Attend the Fair, September 21-24.

As the time draws near for the opening of the county fair—September 21, the people are taking more interest in this annual event than they ever did before. Last year's successful fair has demonstrated the fact that Bedford County can have as good a fair as any of the adjoining counties, if the proper effort is made. The farmers of Bedford County are among the best in the state and this county is becoming noted for its production of fine apples and other fruits. There is plenty of good stock in the county. All these things should be shown at their best at the fair.

The premiums offered are liberal, being in excess of some offered by other county fairs in the state. The farmers in the immediate vicinity of Bedford realized this fact last year and many of them won substantial premiums. Farmers residing at a distance from Bedford should also take advantage of the premiums and bring their stock and farm products.

This year the premiums on horses amount to $654; on cattle, $710.50; on sheep, $166; on hogs, $161; on poultry, $87.25. This is probably a surprise to the stock raisers of the county, as they had no idea the premiums are so liberal. What is wanted now is a large display of stock, and the indications are that it will be larger than ever this year.

The final arrangements are being made for the amusements and other attractions. These promise to be good. First and foremost in the eyes of the general public are the races. They were fine last year and met with widespread approval. This year they will draw even bigger crowds. The Rice Brothers and the Frederick Family will furnish a varied and attractive entertainment between the races. The Osterburg Band will furnish music all day long, enough to satisfy the most exacting, and in the evening there will be concerts given by the band in Bedford.

Visitors to the fair this year will find plenty to instruct and amuse them and will be well repaid for their trouble.

Exhibitors are urged to secure entries from the secretary, J. Roy Cessna, and have their exhibits properly entered when they bring them to the fair. This will save much confusion and delay on the grounds on opening day.

Howard M. Stone

Mrs. Margaret Stone received a message from Seattle this morning conveying the sad news that her son, Howard M. Stone, had died very suddenly in that city. No details were given. The deceased had been in poor health and was in a hospital in that city for several weeks with scarlet fever. His brother, Harry Stone, of the postoffice, spent several days with him during his recent western trip, at which time there was nothing indicating that his condition was serious.

The deceased was aged about 43 years. He was a former resident of Friend's Cove, Bedford County, and in the latter '80s went west, where he has since resided. His last visit to this city was on the occasion of the death of his father, Reuben Stone, eight years ago. Besides his mother he is survived by four brothers: R. Foster Stone of Johnstown, N. Y.; John of Fostoria, O.; Charles and Harry Stone, of Tiffin, O.; also three sisters, Mrs. Albert Strouse, Mrs. Homer Stuart, of Fostoria, O., and Miss Anna Stone of Tiffin, O. The deceased was a member of a Seattle lodge Knights of Pythias, and the burial will probably occur at that place under the auspices of that organization.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 7, 1909.

Sudden Death of Old Soldier

At a late hour on Thursday evening, September 2, friends entering the home of William Line on West Pitt Street found his body cold in death.

Deceased was 74 years of age. The early years of his life were spent in service of the Methodist Church along all lines, especially that of music, being leader of the choir for a number of years.

At the beginning of the Civil War Mr. Line enlisted as a soldier in defense of his country, serving in the 138th Infantry. His entire business life as cabinet maker and undertaker was spent in Bedford but at the time of his death he was leading a retired life.

A friend to all and foe to none, this veteran was borne to his last resting place without so much as "the sound of a drum nor martial hymn." Not a soldier to discharge a farewell shot over his grave! But he sleeps his last sleep, he has fought his last battle.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of his surviving sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Wise, Spring Street, by Rev. M. L. Culler Saturday afternoon. Interment in Bedford Cemetery. A friend.

Susan Alverta Manges

Susan Alverta, daughter of Martin L. and Rhoda Manges, died at the home of her parents in Allegheny Township, Somerset County, on Friday, September 3, aged 17 years, three months and four days. Death resulted from cerebro-spinal meningitis.

Besides her parents, three brothers and five sisters survive. She united with St. John's Lutheran Church in 1906 and was an active and faithful member.

Rev. G. L. Courtney of West End conducted the funeral services which were held on Sunday. Interment in Mt. Zion Cemetery.

STATE BANKERS MEET

Largest Attendance in Years—Resolutions Advanced.

Bankers and men interested in financial problems from all over the state gathered at Bedford Springs Tuesday morning for the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association. The sessions opened with a prayer by Rev. R. Allan Russell, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, and the address of Welcome of Cashier J. Anson Wright of the Hartley Bank. Following this came the address of President Eli S. Reinhold of Mahanoy City, and in this several remarkable changes in the laws were proposed, chief of which, affecting the savings departments of banks, a law which requires the registration of municipal bonds in one of the county offices, no registration being permitted unless the law has been strictly complied with in issuing the bonds. Such a law, the speaker said, would eliminate any danger of illegitimate issues and render the bonds incontestable.

Another suggestion was a more stringent law covering the marking of fraudulent financial statements in order to secure loans from banks. Bills of lading also were considered and a law proposed so as to make them uniform and to further protect banks.

The reports of the other officers and committees were received and the Membership Committee had an excellent report, the members now numbering 1,030.

The other chief events of the meeting were the addresses of Professor Edward S. Meade, financial instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, on "An Effective Defense Against Socialism," and of Thomas Patterson, Esq., of Pittsburgh, on "The Law and the Banker."

At the baseball contest the Eastern team won over the Western by the score of 12 to 4.

President Reinhold was toastmaster at the banquet Tuesday evening and responses to toasts were made by Edwin Earle Sparks, president of Pennsylvania State College, Thomas B. Holmes and Henry Houch.

A session was held Wednesday morning at which time Congressman E. B. Vreeland of New York, chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, made an able address on "Banking and Currency Reform."

John O. Sheatz, State Treasurer of Pennsylvania, followed with an address on "Taxation," and the last address on the program was given by Frank Kent, vice president of the Bankers' Association, New York.

After the session the Bankers' Association and Travelers' Club gave a luncheon at the hotel.

All the addresses showed mastery of the subjects and all were well received.

The officers chosen were: President, Robert E. James, of the Eastern Trust Company, Boston; Vice President, William A. Law, Philadelphia; Treasurer, Robert J. Stoney, Jr., Pittsburgh. The Secretary is elected by the Executive Committee and it is likely the present incumbent, D. S. Kloss of Tyrone, will be chosen.

A WESTERN TRIP

Excellent Description of Iowa—Good Farming Country—Good Times Continue.

Sunnyside Farm, Van Wert, Ia. Editor Gazette—

Though both my letters were from here yet I told you nothing of Iowa, and this state being my ultimate destination was of the greatest interest to me.

When I arrived, on the 21st of July, I found the farmers in the midst of harvesting and not being accustomed to farm life every feature was new and attractive. One of my first experiences was riding the binder in the oats field. I drove three horses and as the machine did all the work itself by way of cutting and binding, all I had to do was guide the inside horse by the grain. The day the oats was threshed I was not here but later I watched timothy seed taken from the grass by the aid of one of those large machines such as I had never seen in Pennsylvania. With a twenty-four horse power engine attached to the immense separator by belts, the work was done. Two teams drawn up on either side held the timothy, which was pitched from there into an elevator, carried to the knives, bands cut, and sheaves separated. Later through the cylinder the straw was blown out of a wind stacker into a circular stack and the seed, going into grain elevator, was weighed, and deposited in sacks there to receive it.

As I go over my cousin's beautiful farm and see others I wonder how the farmers of Pennsylvania would like to exchange places and I can scarcely conceive how crops can be made grow in that rocky, hilly country. This season is not nearly so good as usual, owing to the late spring and incessant rains, yet I heard my cousin say only this noon that the better corn would produce sixty and the poorer, forty bushels to the acre. The principal crops in this vicinity are corn, oats and hay. Little or no attention is paid to truck farming, as the poultry, butter, eggs, etc., are kept for use of the family. In some places in Iowa—and I am in the southern part seventy miles from Des Moines—the country is rolling, yet I find on inquiry that the higher ground is the level ground and the valleys but washed-out places.

Here at "Sunnyside Farm" the land is level and all tillable except a little slough which serves as a drain, and land is valued at $150 per acre. Most of the farms are enclosed by a hedge, which, by law, cannot exceed 5 feet in height; and land is divided off by sections, most lines running straight. Every farm, too, has a grove, usually composed of maple, spruce, and cottonwood. There groves are lovely and can be seen for miles; they afford shade and are quite an acquisition to the home.

Being in the corn belt region, I saw by the Des Moines paper only yesterday that Iowa was estimated to produce two hundred eighty-six million bushels of corn this year. The soil of Iowa is black loam and no patent fertilizer is used, as it is not considered necessary. Some of the land here that is inclined to be wet is made productive by tiling, or small earthenware pipes connecting with one large drain pipe laid under the soil far enough from the surface so that neither plow nor frost will effect it. This was an unusually large berry season, the apple and plum crops are good, but no peaches are to be seen on the trees, the spring frosts having killed them entirely.

Being in a strictly agricultural district most of the best people are found on the farms; thus making the towns small. I find many of the people cultured, refined, and believers in progress; their homes are large and modern, and sons and daughters are educated in the best schools Iowa affords. Many of the young people whom I have met are either students of Drake University of Des Moines, the State University, at Iowa City, or Simpson College, Indianola.

Besides this, two Chautauquas of ten days each are supported every summer; one at Osceola, twelve miles, and one at Leon, ten miles distant. We attended the one at Leon several evenings and there I heard the Royal English Hand Bell Orchestra of London, who charmed their audience by the skillful, graceful manner of manipulating those bells so as to render perfectly, difficult selections. I also heard Hal Merton, magician and ventriloquist,—he had been on our school lecture course at home; The Commonwealth Male Quartette, Arthur Mac Murry in his lecture, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and soloist Donald Chalmers. Senator La Follette was to have honored the chautauqua by his presence but he failed to materialize. Judge George D. Alden was there, too. Perhaps you have heard him and if you did this one expression in his lecture will recall him to you: "Says I to myself, says I," for he delivered the same identical lecture I had heard in Hyndman one year ago last April. Oh! yes, Hal Merton looked like an old friend, too, for his voice had lost none of its nasal twang and his white-whiskered jokes were given with the same stately smile, though the "little lady's handkerchief" and the "stiff gentleman's hat" were not so readily produced, and the "tumultuous applause" was not so long in subsiding.

Last Sunday night I had the pleasure of listening to an interesting talk in a Van Wert church by Mrs. Carrie Sunder of Calcutta, India. Mrs. Sunder, a native of Van Wert, had gone to India as a missionary, while there married an officer in employ of the English Government, and now is visiting the States and her home town.

Saturday, August 14, being "show day" in Leon the whole house was astir by 4:30 a. m., for every one was to go. The Wallace-Heckenbeck shows were to be there and all who could produce a conveyance went. There were autos, carriages, buggies, wagons, and every conceivable kind of rig represented, with every kind and variety of humanity therein. From 7 o'clock on all roads led to Leon and by 10 o'clock the streets were lined with people waiting for the parade. From ten to twelve thousand visitors were in town and when the parade did finally come, at 11:30, I wondered which I enjoyed more, the one I had been watching on the sidewalk, or the one before me in the street. The new style of hair dressing, the "bang," was in full display and bright colors of every shade, hue, and combination evidenced. The circus, which began at 2 p. m., had five rings and the acrobatic feats were performed with much ease and skill. I especially enjoyed the hippodrome races and the horseback riding.

There is so much to enjoy here in Iowa—picnics, hay rides, festivals, drives and, best of all, horseback rides; everyone can ride, from the little tot to the aged man and woman. The roads are good, air pure, and the climate surely is healthful. With fried chicken every day, sweet corn, tomatoes, and everything else good it is impossible not to get fat. I, myself, have gained nine pounds since I came here and never felt better in my life. A party of us are going out over the country tonight for a ride and the girls will go astride, that being the prevalent custom as it is considered an easier as well as a safer way to ride, and with the long, divided skirt I think it quite graceful.

My cousin's family here at "Sunnyside" consists of himself, wife, sons, Harry and Wilbur, married and living on adjoining farms; Arthur at home, and music student at Drake University; Josephine and Edmund, in High-School. Mrs. James Blair, wife of Dr. Blair, Osteopath, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and two children, Shirley and Lenora, are spending the summer in Van Wert and from them I have learned much of Florida, its people, customs, and products. Cousin Nora (Mrs. Blair) brought some jelly made from guava, a tropical fruit, and having a flavor unlike anything I had ever tasted. She also had grape fruit, which grows in St. Petersburg and is found in large clusters, on tiny bushes. They vary in size from those, the size of a quart, to a half-gallon cup.

I have also visited at "Hill Crest," the home of W. F. Blair, who is President of the Van Wert Bank. There I have two charming cousins, Fannie and Helen, the former a senior in Drake University and the latter in her last year at High School. Then, too, I spent some time with Oliver H. Blair, whose farm is about two miles from here and his grove can be easily seen from the east window where I am writing. They have two children—Jessie, married to Clarence Fry, and John at home, with whom I had some fine horseback rides.

One day and night I spent in Leon, as guest of Will and John Perdew, sons of my great uncle, Nathan Perdew, formerly of Pennsylvania. Every place I am treated so well and so hospitably entertained that my heart goes out to these dear relatives in Iowa, who know so well how to treat a little stranger who is so far from home.

The State Fair at Des Moines, which begins tomorrow, seems to be the all-important question under discussion and as several of us are going from here Tuesday to remain several days I may have something more of interest to write and will tell you further of the most pleasant summer I ever spent. Very sincerely,

Alice V. Blair.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time and if I did not have consumption, it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Ed. Any one can take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills as directed in perfect confidence of good results. Sold by all druggists.

How to Add to Your Garden Season

It is that first frost that transforms the whole world. The peaches and grapes and melons disappear, and the pears get a rich crimson with a deeper gold overlaid. You will have no more green corn and no more wax beans. Only let me tell you a trick or two that will lengthen your season. Break down a few bean poles flat to the ground and lay cornstalks or some coarse straw over them. They will go on blossoming and forming pods, if you will but let in the sunshine of bright days.

If you have been thoughtful enough to plant a few hills of sweet corn about the first of July, you may also protect the season of table corn three or four weeks. Bend over the stalks and stand on each side any shelter that is convenient. However, this is a delicacy that one soon tires of, while string beans, in my judgment, are delicious every day in the year. In Florida I have them as a winter luxury.—E. P. Powell, in the Outing Magazine for September.

ACROSS THE PLAINS

New Paris Boy Took Horace Greeley's Advice.

Everett, Wash.

To The Gazette:

By the request of my home people to write an article to the home paper about my trip west I will endeavor to do so.

Leaving New Paris on the morning of Wednesday, August 18, 1909, and going to Mann's Choice boarded a train there at 11 a. m.; changed cars at Hyndman, leaving there at 1:54 p. m., and arrived at Pittsburg at 6:25 p. m., remaining until Friday evening. I had the pleasure of seeing the National League teams of Pittsburg and St. Louis play ball on Thursday, August 19, on the famous Forbes Field, one of the finest ball grounds in the world. They have a new grand stand that will seat thirty thousand people, seats ranging in price from 25 cents to $1. I also saw Hans Wagner, one of the most famous ball players of the U. S.

Leaving Pittsburg on Friday at 5:25 p. m., it was almost dark and I could not see much of the country. Traveling all night I arrived in Chicago at 7:40 a. m., missed connections there and could not leave until evening. Chicago is a very busy city although I did not get to see very much of it, but one of the fine sights was Lake Michigan, which is a very large body of water. Leaving Chicago over the Wisconsin Central Railway to St. Paul, most of the trip was after night, except in the northwestern part of Michigan which I saw and which is a very nice country. The crops all looked fine, especially the corn and potatoes.

Arrived at St. Paul at 9:15 a. m. Sunday and left at 11:35 a. m. I crossed the Mississippi River at Minneapolis which is not very wide at that place. Going over the Soo Line from there I passed through some very nice country and the crops all look fine. From this on the farmers had just commenced harvesting their great crops of wheat and oats; they use the large binders. Some had commenced threshing and it is a fine sight to see them use those large machines where the men only need to haul the grain to the machine, pitch it in and it comes out clean, ready to be put away. Here they use straw for fuel for the engines and a great many use gasoline engines of the large type.

Through North Dakota you can see some very nice sights and can look out of the car window for miles and see nothing but grain shocks. There was some of the finest wheat and oats I ever saw in my life. As it was after night I missed a great many interesting sights in the northern part of North Dakota.

Portal, N. D., is a very nice, little country town, being on the boundary between the U. S. and Canada. There are great quantities of wheat and oats raised here but the Canadians observe Sunday more than they do in North Dakota; here they were cutting and threshing grain on Sunday but in Canada the farmers are liable to a fine of $50 for working on that day. There are a great many lakes in Canada and an abundance of water fowl, mostly wild ducks. I also saw some prairie chickens and wolves.

The railroad passes Sicamous Lake, which is 69 miles long and three miles wide, and is a very pretty sight. The next and most interesting sight was the Rocky Mountains where you can see snow on the high peaks the whole year around, and is from 25 to 30 feet deep in a great many places. You can also see small glaciers moving slowly down the mountain side.

In a great many places the railroad seems merely fastened to the side of the mountain and at these places you can look straight down for several hundred feet; there are also a great many high bridges through here but did not ascertain the height. In ascending the Rockies they use four engines to an ordinary train of ten coaches. After getting on this side of the mountains you can see some very fine and fertile country, covered with some of the largest trees in the world.

I crossed back into the U. S. at Sumas, Wash., which is located directly on the boundary and is a very interesting town. I arrived at my destination Wednesday noon, August 25, by western time—by eastern time just three hours later. Everett is a very nice city, having a population of thirty thousand, with seven passenger trains daily and six steam passenger boats daily. The city is only seventeen years old and is still growing very rapidly. I am very proud of my trip and would like to see some of the Pennsylvania people make a start for the west. Some may think it is hard to travel, I thought so before I started but found it very easy.

With this I will bring my short sketch to a close and hope that it may interest some of the readers.

Very truly,

Forrest McMillen.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Certain Ingredients That Really Grow Hair When Properly Combined.

Resorelin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its natural nourishment, and also creates a clean, healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Pilocarpin, although not a coloring matter or dye, is a well-known ingredient for restoring the hair to its natural color, when the loss of hair has been caused by a disease of the scalp.

These ingredients in proper combination, with alcohol added, as a stimulant and for its well defined nourishing properties, perfect the most effective remedy that is known for scalp and hair troubles.

We have a remedy which is chiefly composed of these ingredients, in combination with other extremely valuable medicinal agents. We guarantee it to positively cure dandruff and to grow hair; even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair. If there is any vitality left in the roots, it will positively cure baldness. If the scalp has a glazed, shiny appearance, it's an indication that baldness is permanent, but in every other instance, baldness is curable.

We have everyone troubled with scalp disease or loss of hair to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not cure dandruff and grow hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. We print this guarantee on every bottle. It has effected a positive cure in 93 per cent. of cases where put to a practical test.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike and in every particular better, than anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is prescribed. We urge you to try this preparation at our entire risk. Certainly we know of no better guarantee to give you. F. W. Jordan, Bedford, Pa.

Interesting Number

Scribner's Magazine for September contains a number of articles that are of unusual importance about present-day affairs. The leading article, for example, by Montgomery Schuyler, describes most entertainingly "The Evolution of the Sky-Scraper." It is just twenty years since the earliest example of skeleton construction was erected at No. 50 Broadway, New York. Already the building is coming down to make way for a building thirty-eight stories in height. Mr. Schuyler shows how rapid has been the development of this entirely American advance in business buildings. The illustrations by Peixotto are unusually effective.

The short-stories are:

"The Experimenter," by Georgia Wood Pangborn, a tale which will be of interest to vivisectionists; "The Lifted Bandage," by Mary R. S. Andrews, author of "The Perfect Tribute," a story of remarkable spiritual quality; "The Luck of a Book Farmer," by John R. Spears—a romance of a young man who combined scientific farming with courtship.

The frontispiece is a reproduction in colors of a striking painting by Frank Brangwyn. Ernest Peixotto describes in "The Field of Art" some notable paintings at the Seattle Exposition.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Lesson XI.—Third Quarter,
For Sept. 12, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxi, 1-17.
Memory Verses, 13, 14—Golden Text,
Acts xxi, 14—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]
When the time came to leave Tyre the disciples there, men, women and children, accompanied Paul's party out of the city down to the shore, and all kneeled down on the shore and prayed. What an object lesson for those who may have been looking on! There are always some watching us who draw their own inferences from our conduct as to whether we are worldly or other worldly, whether we are for the most part in communion with earth or heaven. Some who bear the name of Christ have been known to shrink from praying before others or even asking a blessing on their food. What can He think of those who are thus ashamed of Him? (Matt. x, 33.)

As at Miletus, so here at Tyre we have another painful separation where Paul and his companions set sail and the friends from Tyre return to their homes, but we trust that all hearts were more than ever turned to Him who is our continual habitation (Ps. lxxi, 3), and from whose presence some day we shall go no more out. One day at Ptolemais, where they also found brethren, and then to Caesarea, where they tarried many days in the home of Philip the evangelist, who had four daughters, virgins, who did prophesy. We recall that Philip was greatly used of God in Samaria and then to lead the Ethiopian treasurer to Christ, after which he preached in all the cities from Azotus to Caesarea (Acts viii, 40), but that seems to be the last we have heard of him till now. God gave to the churches apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ (Eph. iv, 11, 12), and were it not that Philip is still called the evangelist we might think that he had become pastor of the church at Caesarea and that Cornelius and his household were members of that church. There are so many things we are not told and we are curious enough to want to know, but we must wait to find out why we hear nothing more of Philip's active ministry and to learn what he was doing at Caesarea. Then these daughters of his—in what sense did they prophesy?

Concerning it all it comes to me continually that there is only One with whom we have to do, and if we are filling the place He assigns us, be it service small or great, that is all He requires of us, whether other people know much or little or anything about it. He appoints to every one his work and says "occupy till I come" (Mark xiii, 34; Luke xix, 13). He knows in what part of His field His plants will thrive best and bear the fruit that He desires, so it is ours to quietly abide in Him and see no one but Jesus only. We may imagine what a time of prayer and praise and study of the word these days in Caesarea were and how they would listen to Paul declaring what things God had wrought by his ministry (verse 19), for as he afterward did at Jerusalem he probably did here also and elsewhere. While at Caesarea a prophet from Judea named Agabus by a striking object lesson foretold that at Jerusalem Paul would be arrested and imprisoned, upon which the disciples there as well as Paul's own companions besought him not to go to Jerusalem. Paul's reply to them all was that he was ready, not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus (verse 13). Compare his words to the Ephesian elders at Miletus in chapter xx, 24. Both of these are splendid utterances of a wholehearted servant of Christ who would not by any persuasion of friends be turned aside from what he believed to be the Lord's way for him. When they saw that he would not be persuaded they simply ceased urging him and said, "The will of the Lord be done" (verse 14). Being joined by several of the disciples from Caesarea and by an old disciple from Cyprus, named Mnason, who was to lodge them, they in due time reached Jerusalem and were gladly received by the brethren. Thus ended the third missionary journey.

Concerning the will of the Lord to which they desired to submit when they found that they could not persuade Paul not to go to Jerusalem, there can be nothing greater or higher and when His will shall be done on earth as in heaven that will be the kingdom of God on this earth. Our Lord Jesus could say, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God." "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me and to finish His work" (Ps. xli, 8; John iv, 34). In proportion as His will is done in us now, that good and acceptable and perfect will of God (Rom. xii, 1, 2), we have just that much of the kingdom in us, a foretaste of eternal glory. May we ever say from the heart cheerfully, "Thy will be done." It is possible for us to think that we are in the will of God when we are simply working out our own will? It is to be feared so. I could believe that Paul was right in resisting all the entreaties of his fellow believers and fellow laborers unto the kingdom and determining to go to Jerusalem at any cost were it not that the Spirit said to Paul that he should not go (verses 4, 11). The disciples said to Paul through the Spirit that he should not go.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Bilio-ness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

Time and Tide wait for no man and the accurate marking of its flight oftentimes means much money, either lost or gained, by the man who has a watch he can always depend upon. The watches we carry are the makes of men who have been in the business of making watches all their life and their fathers were in the same business before them. In a word, these watches represent the acme of perfection and are built to keep accurate time all the time. SNAKES IN TARIFF BILL

The changes in schedules and in classifications in a new tariff bill have usually been numerous and various. Such is the case with the Payne-Aldrich-Taft-Trust bill which became a law when President Taft signed it on August 5. A general comparison of duties, advalorem and specific showed the measure to be far from a downward revision which the Republican party promised to the people of the nation, but a critical examination by an expert shows it to be not only an upward revision but to contain many jokers or snakes.

Such an examination was made for the Review of Reviews and the number of jokers and snakes he found reflects no credit upon the intelligence and integrity of those entrusted with the making of laws for the people of the nation.

The report of the investigation in cotton goods alone—an article used by rich and poor alike, but more extensively by the latter than the former—shows an increase over the rate in the Dingley bill amounting to about 100 per cent. The increase was brought about largely by changes in classification of which the following is an illustration: "Under the Dingley tariff cotton cloth was subject to the same duty whether mercerized or not. The new law provides for an additional duty of one cent a square yard on cotton cloth, 'mercerized or subjected to any similar process.'"

In another part of the bill mercerized cloth is defined as one "which has any mercerized threads in or upon any part of the fabric." This will impose the additional one cent a square yard on any cloth having two or more glossy threads in the fabric. This definition to mercerized cloth was withdrawn by Mr. Payne when in debate in the House it was subjected to criticism. It re-appeared in the Senate bill but failed there to find support and was withdrawn by Mr. Aldrich. But it appeared in the bill as reported from the conference and now forms part of the tariff law of the nation, and those who use cotton cloth must pay the additional one cent a yard.

This is but one of the changes in classification having the effect of raising the price—one of the vipers caged in the House, let loose and recaged in Senate, but turned loose in the Conference Committee and allowed to remain at large to prey upon the consumers of clothing until the people demand an honest revision of the tariff and elect honest men to do it—all for the benefit of the cotton manufacturers of the nation, who no doubt framed the original paragraph.

Another illustration of the harm that may be done by a harmless-looking little joker is to be found in the wood and lumber section. The official estimate shows a reduction of more than fourteen per cent. on lumber and its products, the joker not considered. The Dingley law provided for a duty of one cent per cubic foot in "timber, hewn, sided or squared." "Mr. Payne," says the investigator, "while reducing the rate to ½ cent per cubic foot, allowed the lumbermen on his committee to modify the definition so as to read 'timber, hewn, sided or squared otherwise than by sawing.'" As sawing is the process by which practically all timber is sided or squared, the joker places sided and squared timber under boards which will result in an increase of 50 per cent. over the Dingley rates.

Such were the methods employed to rob the people of their rights.

THE POLE FOUND

The silence that for ages has surrounded that mathematical point known as the North Pole has been broken by the exultant cry of two Americans. The world was sounding praises to Dr. Cook for his discovery, not less than for his bravery and his daring, when Peary, having made a number of unsuccessful trips, announced that he had "Nailed the stars and stripes to the pole." For the most part the scientists of the world had accepted and credited the report of Cook, who with two Esquimaux had pushed over the ice-bound region and planted the stars and stripes over the coveted pole.

The hallucination and fake theories of the skeptical had hardly been exploded, concerning Cook's find when Peary declared he had seen no trace of Cook in the region of the pole, and later flashed around the world the startling statement that Cook had not been out of sight of land, declaring the Esquimaux who had been with him had said so. Cook stands firm but will not give his proofs until his book appears, though he will send for his Esquimaux to corroborate his statements.

If this controversy keeps up no report of the pole's having been found will be accepted until the discoverer shall have found the monster dividers with which some prehistoric giant, from that theoretic point, described the arctic circle.

PIAZZA MICHAEL ANGELO

By Julia Hall Bartholomew
Above the "Lily's" streets, where life is fair,
Where Nature paints her theme
With pastel hues
Tinting the Arno vale in beauty rare,
The eye is held entranced with glorious views
That lift the mind and captivate the heart.
Perchance the Master's spirit hovers nigh,
The Angelo—the messenger of art,
Great strong evangel of true aim
and high.

Italian skies in benediction lie,
With touch as soft as lovers' lips impart,
So close, the air divine is breathed;
and high
The soul is lifted—to the realms of art.
"David" stands in the midst, and all alone,
To draw the wandering thoughts from things below.
Fair heights, where art's true atmosphere is known!
The consecrated place of Angelo.

WHY

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum

Kitchen Ware

Is Better Than Agate or Enamel

Because it is sanitary and saves your money, time and health. The genuine spun aluminum ware, stamped with the Maltese Cross, will outlast any other cooking utensils and is guaranteed by the makers for twenty-five years.

It is pure, wholesome and hygienic—no danger of metal poisoning—cannot chip into the food, because pure SPUN Aluminum expands with the heat and will not crack, scale or peel like the old style ware.

Enamel ware is iron coated with colored glass. Heat causes the glass to chip off into the food in minute particles, which, taken into the stomach, is apt to cause serious troubles, including cancer, according to some medical authorities.

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware is made from solid Aluminum throughout—no coating of glass—and expands uniformly under heat. It cannot crack, scale, peel like the out of date enameled utensils; it does away with all possible danger from this source.

You owe it to yourself, and to every member of the household, to give this new and better kitchen ware a practical test. If it fails to do what is claimed for it, you get your money back without a quibble or a cross word.

When asked for his receipt for health, strength and happiness, Mr. Mann replied: "Drink at least three pints of pure water each day, and nothing stronger than buttermilk, lemonade or coffee. Eat abundance of good, wholesome food, but do not overload the stomach. Get busy. Be cheerful. Don't worry. Forget your troubles. Don't talk and think about disease and sickness. Give the germs a rest (in your mind), and sunshine, pure air and cleanliness will drive them from your homes. Spend all the time you can out of doors, and keep your bed room windows open day and night. Do this, and you ought to be able to snap your thumbs and fingers at doctors and be jolly."

A MEERSCHAUM PIPE.

It Requires Careful Smoking to Color It Properly.

Ordinarily a meerschaum pipe is boiled for coloring in a preparation of wax, which is absorbed and a thin coating of wax is held on the surface of the pipe and made to take a high polish. Under the wax is retained the oil of tobacco, which is absorbed by the pipe, and its hue grows darker in proportion to the tobacco used. A meerschaum pipe at first should be smoked very slowly, and before a second bowlful is lighted the pipe should cool off. This is to keep the wax as far up the bowl as possible, and rapid smoking will overheat, driving the wax off and leaving the pipe dry and raw.

A new pipe should never be smoked outdoors in extremely cold weather. Fill the pipe and smoke down about one-third, or to the height to which you wish color. Leave the remainder of the tobacco in the pipe and do not empty or disturb it for several weeks, or until the desired color is obtained. When smoking put fresh tobacco on the top and smoke to the same level. When once burned the pipe cannot be satisfactorily colored unless the burned portion is removed and the surface again treated by the process by which meerschaum is prepared. The coloring is produced by the action of the smoke upon the oils and wax which are superficially on the exterior of the pipe and are applied in the same process of manufacture.—London Answers

HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION NEW YORK CITY

Three hundred years ago, Henry Hudson, an Englishman in command of a Dutch expedition, with eighteen men, explored the Hudson River from Sandy Hook to Troy in his small craft, the "Half Moon."

One hundred and ninety-eight years later, Robert Fulton established, with his steamboat, the "Clermont," a regular water service between New York and the towns along the Hudson river to the North.

This year, New York City, with sister cities and towns along the Hudson, will celebrate these two achievements by a series of imposing observances, religious, historical, military, naval, musical and literary, extending from September 25 to October 9.

Replicas of the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" have been built and will play a large part in the celebration. They will be the center of attraction in the great naval pageant on Saturday, September 25. The United States Government will have fifty-two war ships anchored in the Hudson, and Great Britain, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Argentine, Guatemala, Mexico, and Cuba will be represented by war vessels.

Two great parades of water craft will escort the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" in triumphal procession past the war leviathans, first in the morning and again in the evening, when all the vessels will be illuminated.

On September 28 there will be a grand historical pageant, and on September 30 a big military parade in New York City.

On October 1, the "Half Moon" and "Clermont" will proceed up the Hudson to Troy escorted by hundreds of river craft, including torpedo boats.

A magnificent carnival parade will be held in New York on Saturday evening, October 2, which promises to eclipse all previous attempts.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, the direct line to New York, with its unsurpassed service of fast express trains, will sell excursion tickets to New York for this period at reduced rates of fare.

Full details concerning specific fares, dates of sale, return limits, and train service may be obtained of Ticket Agents.

Making Money On the Farm

XI.—Poultry Feeding

By C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture"
Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THERE are four main objects in feeding poultry—to maintain life, to cause growth, to produce eggs and to fatten. A large share of the feed given to any animal goes to maintain life. It is only when a fowl receives an excess over that amount that it can grow, produce eggs or lay on fat. Thus it will be seen that it pays to feed liberally. The wider the margin over the maintenance ration up to the amount the bird is able to use the greater will be the profit.

On the farm fowls will pick up most of their food, at least through the summer time. Yet even then they must be given some food, especially of the kinds that they are not able to find for themselves. The most plentiful food on the average farm and the one that the birds are most likely to get is corn. Corn is a heating food and is not suited for laying hens or growing chickens if fed alone. Some oats can be used for the older fowls, but this feed is not suited for young chickens unless ground. Oats are an especially good food for laying hens. One of the best grain feeds is wheat. It is usually too expensive to be fed very extensively, but it may often be used for part of the ration. Wheat, either whole or cracked, makes a splendid feed for young chicks. A mixture of wheat and oats grown together makes an excellent feed for all kinds of stock as well as poultry. Milling byproducts, such as shorts, bran and oilmeal, can be mixed in small quantities with the other feeds and fed to advantage.

Succulent Food Necessary.

One of the greatest needs of poultry in winter is some kind of succulent feed. This can be provided by storing away a quantity of cabbage, turnips, mangels and pumpkins. These can be chopped up during the winter and fed with other feeds or given alone. The fowls will relish them very much and make a liberal response at the egg basket. If there is a silo on the place some silage may be fed to the fowls to advantage. It is cheap and appetizing. Clover and alfalfa hay chopped fine in a feed cutter make good roughage. If soaked in hot water before feeding the hens will eat large amounts. Either bran or cut alfalfa may be mixed in the mash feeds in the proportion of one-quarter to three-quarters of the grain.

Value of Animal Food.

When allowed free range fowls obtain large amounts of animal food in the form of insects. Some feed of this kind is essential if the best results are to be secured. Beef scrap is a packing house byproduct that can be purchased at a reasonable price. It is a very valuable feed for growing chickens and laying hens. The most common animal food on the farm is skim milk. This is a valuable feed for all classes of fowls. At the Virginia experiment station it was found that skim milk is worth a dollar a hundred as a food for laying hens. Buttermilk is also a good feed. If you have many laying hens and can get plenty of fresh bones from the butcher it will pay to get a bone cutter and make liberal use of cut bone as a food. It is high in protein and also contains a large amount of the mineral foods so badly needed by the laying hens.

Mineral foods form an important part of the ration. Of the dry matter of the egg 35.6 per cent is composed of mineral matter. Crushed oyster or clam shells, plaster and slaked lime are the best sources of minerals. Fowls also need grit to assist in grinding their food. A pile of sharp sand in the poultry yard is one of the best means of supplying this. Charcoal is a good preventive of intestinal troubles. A box of it should be kept where they can get at it at all times. A little salt mixed with this charcoal is beneficial.

Feeding Young Chicks.

There are three especially important feeding problems that confront the poultry raiser—feeding young chicks, feeding for egg production and fattening. The greatest source of loss in poultry raising is improper feeding of young chickens. The newly hatched chicks should not receive any feed at all until they are forty-eight hours old.

THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Crumbs of dry or toasted bread make good feed for the first few days. They may be moistened with a little milk or fed dry. Chicks will do better if most of their food is given in a dry form. One of the most common mistakes made in feeding chickens is in giving too much. They should never be fed more soft food than they will eat up clean in fifteen or twenty minutes. Dry grain scattered in straw or cut clover will, of course, last longer. Plenty of pure water, grit and charcoal should be provided. Any scheme that will compel the chicks to exert themselves in getting at their food will be beneficial to their health. The less they are permitted to bolt their food the less liable to digestive troubles will they become.

The bread crumbs may continue to form a considerable part of the ration for two or three weeks. Hard boiled eggs chopped fine and mixed with the crumbs are good if not fed in too large amounts. Oatmeal is one of the best grain foods, but is too expensive to feed extensively. Crushed corn or wheat is a good feed to scatter in the litter. By the time the chicks are three weeks old grain can replace the bread crumbs entirely. About a week later a little beef scrap can be added to the ration. Skim milk can be given from the time they are a week old. The best way to feed skim milk is to let it sour until it becomes curdy. Then pour off the whey and feed the curd fresh or dried. It is greatly liked by chicks in either form. The chicks should be fed three times a day and often if they are not allowed to run out. As they grow older the oats may be cut down in amount and the cheaper grains fed more liberally.

Feeding For Egg Production.

If winter eggs are desired it is important that the hens and pullets be fed in such a way as to stimulate egg production. The animal food part of the ration, which is very important, may consist of either beef scrap or dried curd. This should be put in a self feeding hopper, where the hens can get to it at all times. Hoppers containing charcoal, grit and oyster shells should also be provided and kept full. Fresh water is important and should be supplied plentifully. Automatic fountains are the best means of watering when the weather is not too cold. In cold weather water should be given in troughs at least twice a day. This matter of giving laying fowls a proper amount of water is not as well attended to as it should be.

The breakfast for the laying hens may consist of shelled corn scattered in the litter in the scratching shed. This will keep the hens scratching all the forenoon and will give them the exercise which they need to keep healthy and in laying condition. At noon a dry feed of mixed oats and wheat can be scattered in the straw. This keeps the hens scratching two or three hours longer. The main feed of the day is given at night in the form of a mash. A mash consisting of one part bran or cut clover or alfalfa, one part ground corn, one part ground oats and one part middlings is very good, although there are many other mixtures that can be used. In cold weather the mash should be fed warm. After eating the mash the hens will go to roost warm and comfortable and with full crops—conditions which favor a high egg yield.

In feeding laying hens the aim should be to give all they will eat up clean. In addition to the rations given, some of the green feeds mentioned should be fed if they can be obtained. In the summer the hens have free able to give much high priced feed at this season of the year. The charcoal and grit should be fed all the year round.

Fattening.

It is the common practice to let the chickens run until along toward fall, when the cockerels are caught and sold without any special preparation for market. At the usual fall prices the cockerels yield a fair profit. This profit can be greatly increased by fattening them for a few weeks before marketing. A bunch of twenty or thirty can be shut in a yard together and fed a grain mixture consisting of two parts corn and one part shorts. They will gain rapidly on such feed and in two or three weeks will be ready to be marketed with a considerable increase both in price and weight.

Where a special market for high class poultry can be obtained it pays to crate fatten. This is done by confining the birds in slatted crates, tiered up under a shed. They are fed some such a mash as ground oats, two parts; ground barley, one part, and ground corn one part, mixed with skim milk. This is fed in troughs three times a day, giving the chickens all they will clean up in thirty minutes. From one to two pounds can be put on each one in three weeks, and the quality of the meat is greatly improved at the same time, enough to double the price if a high class market can be secured. A still higher quality of meat can be obtained if the chicks are caponized when they are three or four months old.

The Most Enticing Breakfasts

Are Now Shot from Guns

Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice were served last month for seventeen million meals.

But millions of others lacked them. There are millions yet who don't know them.

If you are among them, we invite you to try them. Serve one of these foods tomorrow.

The world, as you know, doesn't jump to a food which all are not finding delightful.

Puffed Wheat—10c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

The foods of the day are the foods that are best. That is always so.

The foods of this day are these crisp, gigantic grains—puffed to eight times their natural size.

These whole, unbroken, nut-like grains, made four times as porous as bread.

You'll like what others like. We do you a kindness when we ask you to try these foods.

Puffed Rice—15c

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.
